

With over a decade of experience developing creative corporate volunteer engagements, we design projects that stimulate innovation and creative thinking, immersing team members in collaboration while providing a fun atmosphere to build camaraderie.

Collaborative artworks can be used to communicate company-wide messages such as the launch of new corporate culture initiatives or identity, or donated back to the community, adding charitable purpose to your event.

Memorable activities with meaningful participation and well thought out designs guarantee successful outcomes for even the most art-adverse team members.

Customized activities fit a variety of budgets, with projects starting as low as $3,500.

Customizable Engagements

Projects are inclusive, adaptable and customized to engage anywhere from a dozen employees, to hundreds.

We consult with your team leaders and event coordinators to better understand needs and expectations for your event.
